

PRODUCTS

HOME > ACTIONS > ADD NEW PRODUCTS

6. New Product Form: Exercises

Exercises	Mock Recall – a simulated exercise conducted by companies to practice and evaluate the procedures for recalling products in the event of a real safety issue, defect, or non-compliance. Product Trace – the process of tracking and documenting the movement, origin, and handling of a product throughout its lifecycle, from production to final consumption. You can use the calendar icon  to pick a date.
-------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------